"A Part of America Died"

Somebody killed a policeman today and
A part of America died.
A piece of our country he swore to protect
Will be buried with him at his side.
The suspect who shot him will stand up in court,
With counsel pleading his rights.
While a young widow's mother must wait for her kids,
And spend many long, lonely nights.
The best that he walked was a battlefield too.
Just as if he'd gone off to war.
Though the flag of our nation won't fly at half mast,
To his name they will add a gold star.
Yes, somebody killed a policeman today,
In your town or mine.
While we sleep in comfort behind our locked doors,
A cop put his life on the line.
Now his ghost walks a beat on a dark city street.
And he stands at each new traffic stop.
He answered the call, of duty gave his all
And a part of America died.

With Sympathy to His Family

NSTL assisting in selection process for atom accelerator site

BY DENA BISNETTE

A space remote sensing operation at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County is playing a part in selection of a site for a proposed federal research facility for high-energy physics experiments.

The facility is called a superconducting super collider, or SSC. Dr. Fred Birnbaum of Institute for Technology Development, Inc., based in Jackson with a space remote sensing location at NSTL, said, "The part that we're playing is basically advisory. Several task forces have been organized and we will be interfacing with these various task groups."

The project is being coordinated by James Perkins, director of the Jackson ITD location.

"Our main expertise primarily centers on geographic information systems and data bases," Birnbaum added.

"You need to pick the site as objectively as you can and this comes into play very heavily."

He said soils, drainage and groundwater may be a problem in Hancock County.

One area under consideration as a suitable site in Mississippi is to the northeast of the NSTL facility, which Birnbaum said is the best site in Hancock County from a very preliminary aspect.

"We think we have a reasonable shot at it. If we could pull this off for the state it would be a nice feather in our cap. We got started late, because other states, especially Texas, have been working on it for years," he added.

The support communities near the site ultimately selected are expected to experience an economic windfall.

Birnbaum said any site selected in Hancock County could not be near a highway or too near the NSTL space shuttle engine testing facility because the proposed new facility would be sensitive to vibrations.

If it is found that the SSC can stand limited vibrations, the possible proximity to NSTL may not be a problem.

PREPARATION UNDERWAY

In August 1987, Mississippi will submit its proposal for acquisition of the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) to the U.S. Department of Energy.

At the request of Governor Bill Allain, the Institute for Technology Development, Inc. is managing and coordinating all activities involved in the massive project. ITD has already begun consolidating relevant information, and is gearing up to develop the SSC proposal.

David Murphree, president and chief executive officer of ITD, says there are several aspects of the project that must be closely examined as the proposal is prepared. Task forces are being established to consider details involved in the site proposal, which will pool the talents of engineers, space remote sensing experts, economists, sociologists, environmentalists and legal experts.

ITD is currently working with universities, private engineering firms and state agencies, such as the Research and Development Center and the Department of Economic Development, to maximize statewide resources and produce the most effective proposal possible.

THE SSC

SSC will be a federal research facility designed to accommodate experiments in high-energy physics. Upon completion in seven years, the SSC will be the most advanced proton-accelerator in the world.

Physically, the SSC will resemble an underground pipeline system set in an oval 52 miles in circumference. Within this steel and concrete tunnel, two additional "beam pipes" will be injected with protons, which will travel the entire 52 mile ring in opposite directions. Boosted at intervals by accelerator magnets, these proton particles will orbit at a velocity essentially equal to the speed of light.

Underground laboratories called "interaction halls" will be stationed at various points along the tunnel. Here, the two proton beams will collide. The resulting particle fragments will be analyzed by sophisticated electronic detectors, which catch the particles, identify their types, and record their speed.

and directions. This information will be utilized by physicists around the world in their search for clues to the nature of matter and the forces that hold it together.

The SSC is the culmination of two and a half years of research and development by the Universities Research Association in Washington D.C., and its completion will provide the United States with an opportunity to regain world leadership in scientific technology.

The Department of Energy has formally invited state governors to make site proposals as of April 1, 1987. The final location of the SSC is expected to be chosen by January of 1989.

MISSISSIPPI AND SSC

In July 1986, the U.S. Department of Energy will recognize finalists in the competition for construction of the SSC. Mississippi has a good chance of being among those finalists.

The project will contribute significantly to the economy of Mississippi, if selected. During the seven-year construction period, it is estimated that 8,100 jobs would be created and $102.8 million a year would be pumped into the state's economy. Once completed, 5,282 new permanent jobs would produce $31.5 million a year for the state.

Moreover, the state chosen for construction of the SSC project will enjoy the prestige of being the foremost world center for high-energy physics research. The international spotlight will be focused on both the scientific research being conducted in the facility and the community supporting it.

Competition for the SSC is an opportunity for Mississippi to gain credibility in the scientific arena, regardless of the outcome. If the state is chosen, the world's finest scientists, industries, and others will begin to see Mississippi in a profound, new light. Even if the state does not land the project, it will have established itself as a "new Mississippi" capable of competing for large scientific projects.

SELECTION PROCESS, DEADLINES

The Department of Energy (DOE) will be in charge of selecting the site on which to build the SSC. This selection process will be comprised of six major steps. Their descriptions and deadlines are as follows:

1. The DOE has issued invitations for site proposals as of April 1, 1987. NSTL—Page 5A

Services conducted for slain State Highway Patrol trooper

Funeral services for Mississippi Highway Patrol Trooper First Class David Bruce Laddner, 33, were conducted at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Blount Memorial Funeral Home on U.S. 90 North, Gulfport.

Burial followed with Mississippi Highway Patrol honors in Finley Cemetery.

Laddner died early Sunday morning, April 12, 1987, from gunshot wounds received Friday night after stopping a Florida couple on a traffic violation on I-10 near Mingo Avenue.

James L. Roberts Jr., Mississippi commissioner of public safety, said "It is with much sadness and regret that we announce the death of Trooper First Class Bruce Laddner."

"We knew from the beginning that his injuries were serious."

"We were told by his doctors at Gulfport Memorial Hospital that his condition was gravely critical."

"Trooper Laddner, a nine-year veteran officer, had an outstanding service record as a Mississippi Highway Patrol trooper. Our deepest sympathy is extended to his family and fellow officers."

Roberts said capital murder charges have been filed against Tracy Allen Hansen, 44, and Anita L. Krack, 28, who are being held in Harrison County Jail.

They were originally charged with aggravated assault on a police officer, grand larceny auto theft, grand larceny involving the theft of Laddner's gun, and armed robbery.

No bond is allowed on a capital murder charge which may result in the death penalty.

Laddner encountered the couple early Friday evening on I-10 in Harrison County. They were traveling in a Lincoln that had been rented in Florida.

After shooting the trooper, the couple fled in the Highway Patrol car which they later abandoned. They allegedly stole another vehicle at a gas station which was also found abandoned.

After being shot, Laddner flagged down a passing motorist who took him to the hospital.

Hansen and Krack were arrested early Sunday morning by Highway Patrol Trooper Fred Keesel on I-10 in Hancock County about 10 miles from where the shooting took place.

Laddner was commissioned into the Mississippi Highway Patrol in 1978 and had served in Hattiesburg, Iuka and Monticello. He was assigned to the Gulfport area in 1980.

He was a native of Harrison County and a 1971 graduate of Harrison Central High School in Gulfport. He attended Jeff Davis Junior College.

He had received specialized training in emergency vehicle operations, radiological monitoring and drug enforcement.

He was a member of the Scottish Rites, a shiner and a member of Pass Road Baptist Church in Gulfport.

Laddner is the eighth Mississippi Highway Patrol officer to die from gunshot wounds received in the line of duty in the agency's 49-year history.

The last three officers to die were shot on Friday night. Another 11 officers have died in on-duty vehicle crashes.

The first trooper killed on duty was Adrian Cole who died in September of 1940 as the result of injuries received in a motorcycle crash.

Troopers James M. Barry and C.J. Reicher died four days apart as a result of gunshot wounds received in separate incidents in February of 1987.

Five troopers died in automobile accidents while on duty in the 1980s beginning with James H. Tingle in September of 1980. Seven months later, Herbert E. Nixon was killed. Carl M. Thach died in January 1984. Walter W. Smith in September 1985 and Daniel E. Smith in November 1986.

In the 1980s, six troopers lost their lives in shooting incidents or automobile accidents.

Trooper Julian Davis died in an automobile accident in November 1983. Trooper Marcus LaMastus was shot and killed in July 1985.

Trooper Joseph A. Pol lost his life in an automobile accident November 27, 1985. Trooper Tommy Kendall died of gunshot wounds May 16, 1986. Troopers William Kenny and W.O. Swindoll died less than one year apart in automobile crashes four days before Christmas in 1987 and October 5, 1988, respectively.

Trooper Joe Clay died in an automobile accident May 27, 1974.

Laddner is the fourth trooper to be murdered in the line of duty in the 1980s, beginning with Billy Langham who was shot and stabbed to death on New Year's Eve in 1981.

Trooper Danny Nash was shot to death Friday, February 4, 1983; Trooper Steven Gardner was shot to death Friday, March 23, 1984; and Laddner was shot Friday, April 10, 1987.

Laddner was preceded in death by his father, J.T. "Bill" Laddner.

Laddner is survived by his wife, Linda S. Laddner; step-daughter, Dawn Drayton, 17; two sons, Damon Bruce Laddner, 13 and David Brandon Laddner, 11; mother, Mrs. Margaret Lucille Laddner Evans and step-father Robert Evans; brother, Kirk Laddner, all of Lyman; one step-brother, Robert E. Evans Jr. of Long Beach; sister, Susan Diane Laddner of Vicksburg; two step-sisters, Mrs. Barbara Rennie and Mrs. Jean Lett, both of Long Beach; and grandmother, Mrs. Edwina Laddner of Hattiesburg.

The family prefers memorial contributions to a trust fund for his children at Merchants Bank in Ocean Grove in care of Ed Taylor.

Bay school board, superintendent issue statement on contracts

Bay-Waveland School District Superintendent Roger Oge and members of the district's Board of Trustees issued the following statement after a Monday night board meeting on the question of teacher contracts:

"More than 90 percent of the teachers presently employed in the Bay St. Louis School System have been offered an opportunity to return to a teaching position in the system."

"However, the school board and the superintendent are not issuing to certified employees a blanket invitation to return."

"Four employees are being assigned to position of lesser rank due to either their own request or superintendent and board recommendation."

"One employee for health reasons is uncertain of future plans about reemployment. One employee, due to possible job opportunities, has requested a delay in job offering. Three employees have tendered letters of resignation."

"Lastly, six employees have received notice of non-reemployment."

"The administration has refrained from giving specific figures on personnel and will give no names due to the sensitive nature of non-reemployment."

"We, the Bay St. Louis School Board and superintendent realize that in a small community non-reemployment sometimes creates problems. But, the school system must move into the business of most appropriately serving the children and the public."

"We appreciate the public's indulgence as we attempt to operate their schools in the best possible fashion."

Public Radio in Mississippi wins two journalism awards

Kevin Farrell and Sandra Burke, both on the staff of Public Radio in Mississippi, won top awards in the 37th Annual Excellence in Journalism Awards Competition, held recently in Atlanta. PRM is a division of Mississippi ETV.

Twenty-four journalism awards, from a field of 367 entries from print, radio and television journalists throughout the Southeast, were given. The competition is sponsored by the Atlanta chapter of The Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi.

Kevin Farrell's award was in the category of radio sports reporting. His report, "BMX: Peddling to Victory," was about bicycle motocross racing Mississippi.

The report was done at the BMX track on Springridge Road in Clinton managed by the Clinton Optimist Club.

Farrell interviewed participants, spectators and sponsors at a BMX race in Clinton last September.

Sandra Burke's report, "The Jackson Symphony Orchestra Musicians' Strike," won the top award for radio business reporting. Burke interviewed representatives of both musicians and management, presenting both sides of the dispute and giving background information on problems which led to the strike. The report aired in October 1986.

Burke was also a finalist in the feature category for her series on aging.

Bay planning commission recommends changes

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis Planning Commission voted Tuesday to recommend two zoning changes to the city council for approval.

A request by Emmett M. Demoran for zoning change from I-1 light industrial to R-3 multi-family residential on a parcel of land on Railroad Avenue.

The commission voted to recommend the zoning change because the property has been in use as multi-family residential since 1972.

There was also no opposition to the change.

Also at its Tuesday meeting, the commission voted to recommend a zoning change for Overall-McDonald, Inc. from multi-family residential to C-3 highway commercial.

The zoning change is requested on a parcel of property on Ulman Avenue, facing US-90.

The commission stated its recommendation for approval was based on facts that the new zoning would be in keeping with the neighborhood and because the property faces the highway and in original planning all property facing on the highway was to be zoned commercial.

Governor proclaims Burn Center Week

Governor William A. Allain has issued a proclamation designating the week of April 19-25 as Mississippi Firefighters Memorial Burn Center Week.

During this time, several activities have been planned to raise funds for the Mississippi Firefighters Memorial Burn Center, a 15-bed, highly specialized, burn care facility, located on the grounds of Delta Medical Center in Greenville, Mississippi.

Special emphasis is being placed on a state-wide roadblock, which is scheduled for Saturday, April 25.

This eighth annual event is being spearheaded by firefighters throughout Mississippi and Arkansas who will be joined by Communications Workers, American Legion Auxiliaries, Jaycees, Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliaries, Firefighters Auxiliaries, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sororities, Junior Auxiliaries and other concerned citizens, as they participate in this massive fund-raiser.

Roadblocks will be set up in cities and towns where local firefighters perform their duties. The roadblocks will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 25.

The Burn Center, which treats burn victims of all ages, and is the only burn center in Mississippi. Funds to build the Burn Center were donated by businesses throughout the state, business and industry and a special grant from the Mississippi Legislature.

It became operational in January, 1982, and replaced the 14-bed Burn Unit at Delta Medical Center. Approximately 800 burn victims have received treatment, with patients coming from most Mississippi counties and some of the surrounding states.

Everyone is encouraged to support the Burn Center by giving generously when they are approached on the roadblocks, Allain said.

Interstate areas affected by higher speed limit listed

JACKSON—In response to the recent Federal Aid Highway Act which authorized raising speed limits on rural interstates to 65 mph, the three-member State Highway Commission on Tuesday voted in favor of increasing the speed limit in Mississippi.

The sections of interstate where the speed limit will be increased include:

—I-55, beginning at the Louisiana-Mississippi State Line and extending north to the Horn Lake (MS 302, Exit 289) Interchange;

—I-59, beginning at the Louisiana-Mississippi State Line and extending north to mile post 62.6 near Hattiesburg;

—I-59, from the Monroe Road (Exit 73) Interchange and extending north to a point 0.6 mile south of the centerline of 18th Avenue (MS 15 North) in Laurel;

—I-59, from the Cook Avenue (MS 15 South) Interchange and extending to mile post 150.1 (just north of the I-20/I-59 directional interchange);

—I-59, from the Bonita (MS 39 North/MS 19 South, Exit 154) Interchange extending to the Alabama-Mississippi State Line;

—I-20, from the U.S. 61 North/MS 27 South (Exit 5) Interchange and extending east to the Natchez Trace (Exit 34) Interchange;

—I-20, from the Downtown Brandon (U.S. 80, Exit 56) Interchange and extending east to Interstate 59;

—I-10, beginning at the Louisiana-Mississippi State Line and extending east to Cedar Lake Road (Exit 44) Interchange; and —I-10, from the Seaman Road (Exit 50) Interchange and extending east to the Alabama-Mississippi State Line.

According to a recent U.S. Department of Transportation memorandum, highways under consideration for a higher speed limit must meet certain criteria. They should be signed as a part of the interstate system and located outside of urban boundaries.

The commission urges motorists to exercise caution when driving at accelerated rates of speed.

Coast Electric awarded system expansion loan

The Rural Electrification Administration in Washington, D.C. has approved a $18.5 million system improvement loan to Coast Electric Power Association in Bay St. Louis.

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran of Mississippi Tuesday notified Coast Electric's general manager Robert Occhi that the loan had been approved by REA.

According to Occhi, "The loan is needed to finance construction projects to accommodate substantial growth potential in our service area."

Approximately 160 miles of distribution line will be built with this fund, to serve approximately 6,900 new consumer/members.

In addition, the association plans to build five new substations and upgrade 361 miles of existing distribution line.

Occhi stated, "We are pleased to have received an early approval of this loan, and anticipate immediate implementation of these projects."

Occhi also stated that repayment of this loan will have no impact on Coast Electric's rates.

Loans totaling $21.6 million have been awarded to two rural electric power associations in Mississippi, Cochran said.

Cochran said the REA notified him that a loan of $11.1 million has been approved for Pearl River Valley Electric Power Association in Columbia in addition to the loan awarded to Coast Electric.

The loan to the Pearl River Valley system will be used to finance 175 miles of distribution lines, to meet the needs of 2,600 additional customers. Improvements include substation facilities.

Both REA loans are at five percent interest.

Consumer Update

Part One:

A series about home buying

By Janet K. Lakens
Consumer Management Specialist

For most first-time home buyers, purchasing a house can be a real mystery. Most of us don't know whether our dream home is worth the asking price, how to get financing, or necessary aspects of real estate law.

The first thing you need to do if you intend to buy a house directly from the owner is to determine a fair price.

The easiest way to determine the value of a house is to get the local tax assessment.

A tax assessment is a matter of public record and can be obtained at no cost from the city or county finance office.

Generally, the market value will be 75 to 90 percent more than the assessed value. The tax assessment will show the value of the land and "improvements" or buildings that sit on the land.

Another way to determine the fair price is to compare the home with similar homes in the area.

A local real estate office can give you a computer printout of all the homes matching the description of the house you're considering and of the sales in the neighborhood for the last 18 months.

Most real estate agents will be happy to provide this information even if you don't buy a home from them because you will refer them to friends or sell your house with them later.

These "comparison" homes should have approximately the same number of rooms, options and land as you desire in your home. Just as options add to the cost of an automobile, outstanding features in a home can add to the price.

If you feel the home is overpriced, you may ask to have an appraisal done. The owner will probably not agree unless you are willing to pay for it. But in many cases, while an appraisal may be a bargaining tool, the owner is not required to change his price to reflect the results of a low appraisal. Also the appraisal may show you that the seller's price is fair.

An appraisal gives you an idea of the value of the house you're interested in, while a home inspection tells you the condition of the home.

The home inspector should spend about four hours examining every nook, cranny and appliance. The inspector begins on the roof and looks at everything down to and including the foundation. You'll receive a printed report and a bill for between $100 and $175.

This inspection doesn't guarantee things won't go wrong later, but you will at least have some idea whether you'll need to replace the roof or water heater any time soon. If you opt for a home inspection of a house, see if the owners would be willing to share the cost with the understanding that they could keep the written report if you choose not to follow through with the purchase.

Because there are many legal transactions involved in purchasing a home, you will need an attorney. The best way to find an attorney is by a referral from a happy client. All lawyers have received general training in real estate law but it's best to find an attorney who handles property transactions frequently.

Possibly the most important task your attorney will perform is to draw up a contract on the sale of the house. Contract items include an agreed-upon price, specific items to remain in the house upon its sale, and the conditions under which the contract is invalidated. You may want the contract to be binding only if you can obtain financing.

A title search, which determines if anyone else has any legal claim to the house, will be performed once the contract has been signed by all parties involved. This is required for all new loans but is optional if you assume an existing loan. You can purchase title insurance after the search has been done and protect your investment in case another claim is found after the search has been completed.

EDITORIAL

Trooper First Class David Bruce Ladner

The communities are saddened at the death of Mississippi State Trooper David Bruce Ladner. Trooper Ladner died Sunday of gunshot wounds received Friday evening in a "routine" traffic check of a speeding vehicle on I-10.

An officer of the law places his life on the line every time he dresses in a uniform, yet many of us fail to realize the dangerous task they face in protecting law abiding citizens.

Trooper Ladner was placed to rest on Tuesday, and he will long be remembered for his contributions to our safety and well being.

His devotion to his family, friends, fellow law officers and communities are the very things which made him an outstanding officer of the law.

Trooper Ladner's life is gone, but the many good memories of him will be recalled for years to come.

Since words cannot express his loss to his wife and children, we pray that God will be with them in their time of sorrow.

Mutual respect between public and police must be fostered

April 13, 1987
To the Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

Please let me express my sympathy to the family and friends of Trooper Ladner. Tragedies of this type take a long time to heal. There can be no replacement when it comes to a life. I have worked for two police agencies and been involved with at least three others, and death never changes, just the names.

As a former police officer, I was taught by my supervisor, Patrolman Wilbert Dorsey with the Bay St. Louis Police Department, to respect the public always.

I think the public/police relationship has been too long ignored. Since this incident, I have heard the public explain how they would react when an officer stops them now. The most talked about procedure was to jump out of their car and walk up to the officer. Please don't do this.

When I went through police training, we were taught to be wary of a person that does this. It can force an officer to react instead of to assess the situation.

I have worked and ridden with Prince Georges' Police and Maryland State Police while residing in Maryland. The P.G. police have a Ride-a-Long program which I was involved in for 1 1/2 years before coming here. It worked well and I would be willing to help anyone interested in starting such a program.

The public should be familiar not only with the law, but with their local officers. They should be taught to respect the law as we were taught to respect the public. It should be made clear to both parties that the police are here to protect and serve the public, not harass them. Sometimes people lose sight of things and the way they are supposed to work.

I am asking each local and state government to please enact a public awareness program on how to react to police, and to be familiar with who their local officers are. Let's not add more tragedies by overreacting to a situation instead of learning to deal with it properly.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Barbra Moran

AMBASSADORS PROGRAM
DRAWING GOOD RESPONSE
Since the Dec. 10 "Statehood Day" kickoff of the Mississippi Ambassadors program, the Governor's Office and Department of Economic Development have been swamped with requests from Mississippians and former Mississippians who want to become ambassadors for their home state. In fact, to date we have more than 3,500 ambassadors signed up and "pinned," just in the first month of the program.

We have received letters from nearly every state from people saying how much they have wanted to see this type of program initiated. They are taking the information we have sent them and helping spread the news about the exciting progress being made in Mississippi.

We are already working on a number of activities that are part of the Mississippi Ambassadors. The State Board of Education has endorsed a poster and essay contest involving our school children at all grade levels.

The contest will encourage the students to display their feelings about Mississippi in written or art form. We will recognize four state winners, and local and regional winners will be identified as well.

We are working with Mississippi Specialty Foods, Inc., a group of small specialty food processors from Mississippi, to showcase their Mississippi products on Feb. 23 at the Museum of Art. This program is another step at promoting the purchase of Mississippi products. We want to continue to make our state citizens aware of what items are made here in our state.

We are working with the Mississippi Federation of women's clubs to develop a civic club program outlining important facts about Mississippi.

We have also received numerous resolutions of support from various governmental groups, civic clubs, chambers of commerce, economic development groups, cultural groups, retiree groups, and education groups.

Overall, the program has begun with good success. We are looking forward to a full year's activities, culminating with another Statehood Day celebration next Dec. 10.

Easter Sunrise services will be held at many locations in Hancock County.

The annual Easter Sunrise Service, sponsored by the Community Ministers in cooperation with the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, will be held on the lawn of Christ Episcopal Church, Bay St. Louis on Sunday morning at 6:30 a.m.

We know many Christians have plans on attending the church of their choice on Easter morning.

It is good when groups get together and do something about litter in their neighborhood.

A fine example of this was last Saturday when the residents of Jourdan River Estates who are members of the Riverview Homemakers Club got together and cleared their area of unsightly debris.

This is the second year for this group to get together and do such a project. They made arrangements with their supervisor to place the debris in one location so it could be hauled away.

We are proud of the fine job these citizens are doing in trying to improve the appearance of their neighborhood.

Among the members of the organization involved in the cleanup were Cheryl Reynolds, president; Margie Welch, vice-president; Rita Louviere, treasurer; Toodlum Byrd, secretary; and Gail Farrell, environment and cleanup chairman.

Congratulations to these and others who did a fine job.

Don't forget the Hancock County Miss Hospitality Pageant scheduled for 11 a.m. on Thursday, April 30 at the Landmark in Bay St. Louis.

Girls interested in entering the pageant must be at least age 18 and not over 22 by July 11, 1987.

Applications and further information for contestants is available at the Chamber's office on U.S. 90 in Bay St. Louis.

A big event taking place April 25 will be the annual Special Olympics sponsored by the Navy and NSTL.

This will be a special day for athletes from Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River counties.

If you are interested in being a volunteer or sponsor, contact the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce at 467-9048.

CATFISH PRESENTS POTENTIAL

Catfish continues to grow in popularity as Mississippi enjoys the benefits of a fast developing industry. The potential is great for the state which has nearly 6,000 people. The potential is great for the state which has nearly 6,000 people. The potential is great for the state which has nearly 6,000 people.

Americans are becoming more aware of the importance of proper nutrition, and fish is becoming a larger part of the daily diet. Since we can assure a steady supply of catfish at competitive prices, there is every reason to believe that we can take advantage of this expanding market for fish to increase demand for catfish.

Mississippi currently grows 85 percent of the farm-raised catfish in America, and the processing plants produce 90 percent of the packaged catfish available for sale. We have over 400 catfish farms in Mississippi now.

One of the most encouraging aspects of the catfish industry is that we are reaping the profits in Mississippi. Rather than sending our catfish elsewhere to be processed, we are actually receiving some catfish from other states at our own processing plants.

Catfish is already a success story. The industry has been growing at a rate of 30 percent every year since 1980. But we have just begun to realize the potential. We are working now to get catfish accepted by the military as an item on the mess hall menus and for sale in the commissaries. That is a big nationwide market.

Furthermore, the catfish industry in Mississippi is doing a good job of spreading the word throughout the country that catfish is a quality food. New ways of preparing catfish are being promoted. Catfish is being received with enthusiasm by people who have never even considered it before.

This is the type of success we need in our state to provide jobs for our people in a changing economy. I believe this success can be duplicated with other specialty products that can be grown and produced in our state and marketed nationally and internationally.

We are by no means lessening our commitment to efforts to expand our more traditional agricultural base, but we know from our experience with catfish that ventures into new areas can be very profitable for farmers and workers. I am strongly encouraging efforts to develop new ideas that can take us into a new era of economic strength and prosperity as we face the reality of changing times. Catfish is an example of how we can use those changes to our advantage.

Eyes on Mississippi

JACKSON—As some wag has said, before long if the FBI sting operation keeps cracking out back, the only way you'll be able to write a letter to your county supervisor will be to send it to Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala.

Maxwell, most known as the site of the federal government's prison for white collar criminals in this part of the country.

As of last week, the federal county supervisors under federal indictment for corrupting justice had reached 25 and this expected to grow in the next few months.

Of course there are many honest supervisors who won't be indicted, but there must still be a lot of honest county officials around the state.

The great irony, however, is that under existing Mississippi law, those who are convicted by the federal government and sent to Maxwell could be out in a few months, but for their old jobs again.

While the federal government considers such crimes an extraordinary mail fraud and kickbacks to public officials, the federal law, the 1972 Mississippi doesn't recognize them as such, neither as depriving a Mississippi of his right to vote and hold office.

Fantastic, you say. You're exactly right.

It goes back to the 1890 State Constitution's Section 211, which lists certain state crimes for which a person may lose his right of franchise.

Federal offenses which are felonies, however, have been interpreted by the state courts as not applicable to a person's state citizenship under Section 211.

The constitutional section was amended in 1972 to make it even more narrowly applied to state crimes rather than federal.

As a result, in 1972, the federal government convicted 25 supervisors, but the state courts ruled that they were not under Section 211.

the past who were found guilty of federal tax evasion, but were unable to continue as county officials. Notably, the case of once widely-known Jackson County supervisor Eddie Klayton in 1974.

Eventually he was forced out of office under an agreement with the district attorney not to prosecute him on a state charge.

State lawmakers have gotten close to the question of doing something about the loophole relating to federal crimes in Section 211 for years, but they have never gotten a grip on it, reportedly because some home county officials was being protected by his lawmakers friends.

In the recently ended session of the Legislature there was a great deal of infighting which almost resulted in the inclusion of federal felonies as a barrier to holding office in state or local offices, but it was outvoted in an overwhelming vote.

A bill making some changes in the state election law which originated in the House was amended on the Senate floor to specifically include federal felonies, other than federal revenue violations or manslaughter, as a disqualification of a person's right to hold office.

Later, the bill went to a joint House-Senate conference, and while the House conferees were agreeable to accept the amendment, Sen. Hob Bryan of Amory objected because he did not believe it was legal under Section 211.

There is a proposed constitutional amendment that would have included Section 211 federal crimes as a barrier to a person's citizenship under Section 211.

It is that amendment which is being pushed by the House and the Senate, but it is still in the House-Senate conference.

It is that amendment which is being pushed by the House and the Senate, but it is still in the House-Senate conference.

This invitation contains a description of the site requirements, real estate requirements, and qualification criteria. Each state must meet for its proposal to be considered further. Proposal preparations have been initiated.

2. The DOE will receive and screen proposals in August, 1987. A special SSC Site Task Force will screen each proposal to determine which have met DOE qualifications.

3. Proposals will be referred to NAS/NAE for evaluation in September, 1987. A select panel of about 15 members of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Academy of Engineering will review the proposals and evaluate the merits of each.

4. The NAS/NAE panel will recommend the sites in December, 1987. The academies will recommend only a small set of the best proposals to the DOE.

5. The DOE will designate a preferred site in July, 1988. Before announcing the preferred site, the DOE may request additional information from each finalist to accompany the panel's findings.

6. The final site will be selected in January, 1989. The Secretary of Energy will announce which site has been selected. Preliminary and final safety analyses will be prepared during the design and construction phases of the SSC project.

Point of Law

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: I was granted custody of our daughter after my husband and I were divorced. When he and his new wife picked them up for a weekend recently, I told him I wanted them returned at a specific time two days later. Am I entitled to make such a demand and must he abide by my wishes?

A: If your divorce decree sets forth specific times for him to visit with the children, then such times are binding. If your divorce decree specified visitation at reasonable times, you may make such a request, but if your ex-husband refuses to abide by it, you may have to ask the court to modify the visitation schedule to provide for set times.

Q: I have been living with my boyfriend for two years. We consider ourselves husband and wife and tell everyone we are married, but as far as tax reports are concerned, should we file as a common-law marriage or as if we are married or single?

A: In Mississippi, common-law marriages are not recognized and have not been recognized by law since 1965. Under Mississippi law, each of you is considered a single person.

AUTOGRAPH PARTY—Bookends Bookstore in Bay St. Louis recently hosted an autograph party for Flora K. Schieb, seated, of New Orleans, La., author of 'The History of the Southern Yacht Club.' Also participating

BY KATY MC GUIRE CAIRE

Eggs, the symbol of Spring and rebirth from earliest times, were viewed by the early Christians as a mark of the Resurrection, and were a very important part of the Easter feast, since the use of eggs was forbidden in Lent in those days.

Spring is, of course, a special time for people of all faiths, as Christians celebrate the Resurrection and those of the Jewish faith observe Passover, as 'religion' and 'nature' come together in glorious rebirth.

The ancient Persians, history tells us, were the first to dye Easter eggs in vivid colors, the Egyptians and the Chinese followed, bringing up their Festivals of Spring, symbolizing birth and new life.

And, late in the thirteenth century, King Edward I of England is said to have commanded that 450 eggs be boiled and covered in gold leaf, so that he might present them to his household staff at Easter.

Well, I'm not expecting any gold leaf eggs in my Easter basket, are you? I'll settle for the usual - including brightly colored hard-boiled eggs, and watch as the youngsters merrily enjoy an Easter egg hunt.

And, if the little ones are wondering why the Easter Bunny hauls around eggs in baskets instead of raiding the garden patch like any self-respecting rabbit, just tell them this tale:

Easter, the goddess of Spring, according to ancient and oft-told tales, long ago, and in an effort to amuse some small children, changed her pet bird into a rabbit - and that's why the Easter Bunny builds nests and fills them with Easter Eggs!

And, according to a more recent legend in Germany, a poor woman dyed some eggs during a famine and hid them in a nest as her only Easter gift to her children. Just at the moment the youngsters discovered the nest, a big rabbit hopped away - and the tale spread that the rabbit had brought the eggs.

Which leads us to the question of the day - what do you do with all those brightly colored eggs after the Easter Egg Hunt is over? Here's an idea - refrigerate the leftover eggs, tossing out, of course, those that are cracked or stepped on or half-munched, and after they're well-chilled, make:

CAJUN EGGS

(I've also heard these called Scotch Eggs by Britishers.)

6 hard-boiled eggs, well chilled
3/4 lb. smoked or other bulk sausage
2 beaten eggs
1/2 cup flour
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
Black pepper, salt, hot pepper sauce

Wrap sausage around each egg. (You might want to form the sausage into six sort-of-round patties before doing so.) Dip the sausage-covered eggs into the flour, then into the beaten egg (seasoned with pepper, salt, hot pepper sauce to your taste) and then into the seasoned bread crumbs.

Then let them rest for an hour or so in the refrigerator, as this makes all such breaded foods hold their coating better, then, fry in deep hot fat for about 10 minutes, or until you are sure that the sausage is fully cooked. Drain well, serve whole or cut in half or even quartered for "finger food." Delicious hot or cold. (Copyright, 1987, Katharine D.M. Caire.)

AARP chapter to observe National Volunteer Week

Waveland Chapter 1114, American Association of Retired Persons will observe National Volunteer Week April 20-26 with a special meeting Monday.

The chapter will present awards to outstanding local volunteers at the 10 a.m. meeting at Waveland American Legion Hall, Coleman Avenue.

Local dignitaries, including the mayors of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors have been invited to participate in the program.

Refreshments will be served and door prizes awarded, according to Ethel Breaux, chapter president.

In other chapter activity, Breaux; Gordon Stone, treasurer; Les Galivan, first vice president; Donald Manfray, second vice president; Helen Underwood and Erskine Skelton attended a five-county AARP workshop on legislative activity March 20 in Gulfport.

Bell seeks control burn cooperation

South Central Bell is asking the cooperation of all area residents who plan to "burn-off" land or property this season.

"Please be considerate of any telephone junction box or pedestal on your property or on the road right-of-way that may be in the area you plan to burn," said Pat Santucci, district manager.

Excessive heat generated by a grass or brush fire melts the telephone wires and causes all area phones to go out-of-order.

Not only is this expensive and time consuming to repair, but it creates quite an inconvenience to the telephone users who cannot use their telephone, even for emergencies.

"Any property owner who plans to burn off his land should call our toll free number, 1-800-227-6477. We will send a representative to locate and mark any telephone equipment in the area. We will either dig a fire break or remove the weeds so the fire cannot harm it," Santucci added.

"This is the same service we offer for those who plan to dig or excavate and are not sure of telephone cables in the area," Santucci concluded.

Law Day USA ★ May 1

What's the Law? Landlords and Tenants: Your Guide to the Law

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first of a series of four articles supplied by Hancock County Bar Association in conjunction with the national celebration of Law Day May 1.

The tenant who moves into an apartment and finds that there is no water pressure has a right to require the landlord to provide adequate running water. The landlord has an obligation to do so.

The landlord who checks a recently vacated apartment only to discover that the former tenant painted all the walls without first securing permission as the lease required has a right to withhold part, or perhaps all, of the security deposit.

The tenant may be obliged to pay other damages as well if the deposit does not cover the cost of repainting.

This is the theory of recent landlord-tenant law: balancing the rights and obligations of landlords and tenants.

Not knowing one's rights or obligations in the landlord-tenant relationship can be costly to the landlord and may deprive a tenant of safe, sanitary, and affordable housing.

Here is where the law stands concerning landlord-tenant rights. It should be noted that laws differ from state to state, and sometimes from city to city.

Q: Should you have a written lease?

A: A written lease has many advantages over an oral lease. The landlord and tenant can write anything they want to into a lease, giving landlords the opportunity to define the rules of a premises and giving tenants the chance of knowing the rules of the game and having a say-so in making up those rules before they sign the lease.

Further, a written lease makes it easier to resolve any disputes that arise, because then it is not necessary to rely on the word of one party against the other.

Q: When can a tenant sublease an apartment?

A: It is common for leases to require the landlord's consent before a tenant subleases an apartment or house. A tenant who subleases his or her interest in the lease to someone else.

The reason for this is that the law recognizes a landlord's interest in securing tenants who are financially reliable, won't damage the premises, and are of good character. And, unless the lease forbids an arbitrary decision by the landlord, the landlord can simply refuse subleasing or assignment without a good reason, unless the reason is illegal, for example, the race of the proposed subtenant.

Q: Must leases be renewed?

A: Not necessarily. Unless the lease or state law says otherwise, landlords do not have to allow their tenants to renew a lease and tenants cannot be forced to renew.

However, some leases may provide for renewal by compliance with a "notice" requirement: the tenant tells the landlord a month before the expiration of a one-year lease that he or she wishes to renew.

Another lease provision may be an "automatic" renewal clause that locks the tenant into another year's lease unless the tenant informs the landlord that he or she does not plan to stay past the end of the current lease period.

Q: Can the lease be renewed?

A: The lease may seek to block renewal of a lease by a tenant who has not lived up to the lease.

However, a landlord may be forbidden to refuse the renewal of a lease if the landlord is simply retaliating against the tenant.

Q: Do landlords have to account to tenants for deductions from security deposits?

A: Generally, the modern security deposit protection laws are designed to provide some assurance that return of the deposit will be made as long as the tenant pays the rent, does not damage the premises, and lives up to the lease provisions.

These laws usually require landlords to return the security deposit within a certain period of time, a month, for example.

If the landlord has deducted for damages, the law may require that the landlord provide the tenant with an itemized accounting of the amounts deducted and why.

One way for the tenant to protect himself or herself from unfair deductions is to make a checklist of damages or problems when he or she moves in, with the landlord's verification. Then, the tenant makes another checklist when he or she moves out and compares it to the first list.

Q: What is the warranty of habitability?

A: The warranty amounts to a requirement that landlords turn over livable, habitable housing units to their tenants and keep them livable. The theory is that a piece of rental property is leased to the tenant as a package of goods and services, including such essentials as heat, light, ventilation, plumbing, doors that lock, sanitation, maintenance, and other items that are important to the tenant's health and safety.

Importantly, the introduction of the warranty theory in landlord-tenant law has included tenant duties too, like notifying landlords about problems and giving them a reasonable amount of time in which to make repairs.

Q: Are tenants permitted to alter the premises after moving in?

A: The tenant's rights to alter the premises usually depends on what the lease says.

Commonly, the landlord's written consent is required. If the tenant acts without first consulting the landlord, he or she may be liable for damages or may face cancellation of the lease by the landlord.

Q: When something breaks down, who has to fix it?

A: The trend today is to impose fix-it duties on the landlord, provided the tenant notifies the landlord that something is wrong and gives the landlord the opportunity to repair it.

About half the states grant tenants permission to fix certain things in their homes and charge the landlord for the repairs by deducting costs from the rent.

However, these laws also require that the tenant first notify the landlord of the problem.

In repair-and-deduct, it is a good idea for the tenant to keep receipts for the repairs to justify the reduced rent.

The upkeep of common areas, such as stairways, lobbies, basements and entrances, is generally the responsibility of the landlord.

Q: In what condition must the tenant leave the premises when he or she moves out?

A: Landlords have a right to expect that the premises they lease to renters will be returned to them in the same condition as when they were let.

The exception is "ordinary wear and tear," that is, deterioration caused by time. Examples are paint that peels or cracks with age and carpet that becomes threadbare with ordinary use.

Q: Are landlords entitled to receive their rent under all circumstances?

A: In states that recognize the warranty of habitability, tenants can purposely fail to pay all or a portion of the rent due because of the landlord's failure to keep the place livable.

This is called "rent abatement." If the tenant withholds rent, he or she must be prepared:

1) to defend the amount withheld in court if the landlord sues the tenant for eviction;

2) to prove that the defect in question was a serious one, affecting health and safety or something else crucial to habitability; and

3) to verify that the landlord was given notice that something was wrong and had the opportunity to fix it. Failure to pay the rent without a reason is the quickest way to be evicted.

Q: Can landlords raise the rent whenever they want to?

A: In a month-to-month tenancy, stability of the amount of rent may exist only on a monthly basis. In a year's lease, the landlord cannot raise the rent during the term of the lease.

If the landlord wants to raise the rent during the lease period, he or she must give the tenant something in return, i.e., a new contract.

Landlords have one way to demand higher rent, an "escalator" clause in the lease. This provides that if the landlord's costs suddenly increase dramatically, for example, for energy, the landlord has the right to demand higher rent.

Q: What can landlords do when their tenant doesn't live up to the lease?

A: It is common for leases to expressly contain a provision allowing the landlord to regain possession of the premises if the tenant fails to live up to the lease provisions, for example, failure to pay rent, damage to property, unauthorized subleasing or assigning, illegal use of premises, or violation of other provisions.

Another method of compensation for failure to pay rent is a rent acceleration clause, meaning that all future rent due under the lease becomes immediately payable.

Q: Can landlords retaliate against unwanted tenants?

A: Many states have laws that ban retaliation by landlords against tenants for exercising their rights, such as complaining to regulatory authorities about breaches of housing codes.

For example, the landlord may not evict the tenant, decrease services, impose a shocking rent increase, or refuse to renew a lease.

However, certain conditions permit the landlord to act against the tenant, such as the tenant's illegal use of the premises or damages to the premises.

Q: What happens in a typical eviction procedure?

A: In most states there are five steps in a summary eviction procedure:

1) landlord gives tenant notice that he or she intends to sue for eviction and why;

2) service of a summons ordering tenant to appear in court or else lose automatically;

3) trial date is set;

4) trial takes place;

5) judgement or decision made either for tenant or landlord.

If the landlord wins, the fulfillment of the judgement means the law enforcement officers carry out the eviction, usually within two or three days.

The legal action takes place either in a special landlord-tenant court, a small claims court, or regular court. The entire process takes two to three weeks.

Bay council wants changes in proposed sewer district

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday offered to amend the county four-mill plan to bring sewer services to the incorporated areas of the county.

In an earlier work session, the Bay St. Louis City Council instructed Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz to inform the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District of the city's intention to establish a county sewer district which would prevent the city from extending services to areas immediately outside the city limits.

Frankiewicz told the council at the work session that he believes many of the people to be affected by the establishment of the sewer district are unaware that they are included.

Although the area will probably include all the incorporated area between Highway 603 and the Jourdan River, only a portion of the affected households are included in the 20-year plan to provide sewer services.

"Jourdan River Isles, Garden Isles, Jourdan River Estates and portions of Shoreline will get sewer services, but large areas of the district will probably not be served in the next 20 years," he said.

Frankiewicz said the establishment of the district would enable officials to levy as much as 4 mills to generate funds and some people could effectively be taxed for 20 years before getting sewer services. Not only are those residents facing the possibility of having to pay for a service they may not get for 20 years, the establishment of the district will prevent Bay St. Louis from extending its services, he said.

Wastewater district officials Mayor John Longo and Hancock County Supervisor have already voted to deny Bay St. Louis officials authority to extend services to households outside the incorporated area.

Frankiewicz said once the district is established by county officials, area residents will have 21 days to file a protest, including signatures of 150 area residents or 20 percent of the residents, whichever number is less.

If a protest was filed a special election would have to be called and a three-fifths vote would be necessary for the district to be set.

Councilman John Wilkerson also instructed Frankiewicz to tell authorities he believes it "grossly unfair" to hold a public hearing at 10 a.m. when most people are at work and therefore unable to attend.

Bay school district approves advertising bond issue intent

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board has agreed to readvertise a $3,485,000 bond issue delayed from March.

The board had originally agreed at its March meeting to advertise the bond issue, which will be used for expansion and improvements at all four of the district's schools.

However, the bond issue advertisement was delayed after board attorney Lucien Gex and bond attorneys expressed uncertainty regarding whether the March meeting qualifies as a regular meeting.

According to Gex, "You can expect a few problems if you handle a bond issue at anything except a regular meeting."

The meeting was moved from the regular second Monday meeting date to a Wednesday in order to allow the bookkeeping staff to prepare dockets after spring holidays.

The board voted Monday to authorize the advertisement during a 30-day publication period. Under special legislation, if the advertisement is completed by a July 1 deadline, the bond issue is automatically passed unless a specific number of the district's voters petition for an election.

The bond issue will be advertised in the district's old name, Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District, which has been changed but remains official until July 1, Gex said.

In other business Monday, the board:

- Accepted a resolution supporting value-oriented sex education in schools from Hancock County Community Services Planning Council representatives Eve McDonald and Judith Wells;
- Approved resignations effective at the end of the school term from Bay High School English teacher Shirley Haney, Bay Junior High science teacher Shamus Sautters, and elementary-level gifted program teacher Dorothy Pagano;
- Approved a commendation for retiring school secretary Jewel McCalch;
- Approved a tentative version of a school calendar for the 1987-88 term; and
- Approved use of a court reporter to record the proceedings in any nonreemployment hearings.

The board will hold a special 6 p.m. meeting Thursday for teacher nonreemployment hearings.

Port and Harbor commission plans salute to industry

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission voted Monday to join other local organizations in honoring area businesses in a "Salute to Industry" week later this month.

"I think a program to honor the Hancock County businesses and industries is well overdue," said Harold Olsen, newly appointed Port and Harbor Commission director.

Olsen told the commission plans scheduled during the week include a ribbon-cutting for Con-Tech, a new industry locating in the Port Blenville Industrial Park and a tour of the facilities.

"We are also encouraging all the businesses both at Port Blenville and at Stearns International Park to have Open House during the week," he said.

Olsen added a breakfast to further honor the businesses and industries is being planned.

The commission agreed to request the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to declare the week beginning April 27 as "Salute to Hancock County Business and Industry Week."

Also during the meeting, Engineer Carlos Cordon reported the building for Con-Tech is in the "final steps of completion."

Cordon said items remaining to be completed were caused by delayed deliveries and should be finished soon.

A final inspection has been scheduled for this week, he added.

Olsen reported that Con-Tech, a marine electronics industry, has already begun operating out of the building and had more than doubled his anticipated work force.

"Con-Tech originally expected to employ 16 and build from there but it already employs 35 people," he said.

In other business the board agreed to meet with representatives of Gulf Fishermen, Inc., leaseholders on Bayou Cadet Marine, and tenants of the fishermen association's Wesley Ferrell of Gulf Coast Fishermen told the board the association wished to discontinue leases currently held on property within the marina.

The commission also approved a request by Atlas Powder to install monitoring devices in the guard house at Port Blenville.

Olsen said there would be no expense to the commission because the guard house is already manned 24-hours a day.

During the meeting the commission also met in executive session with a prospect.

County approves advertisement for proposed sewerage district

BY DENA BISNETTE
Over objections by the Bay St. Louis mayor and council, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors has authorized the legal advertisement needed to create the county's first sewerage district.

Four board members—Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar, Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner, Beat Four Supervisor Sam Pernicaro and Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca—voted to authorize the advertisement after a public hearing Tuesday.

The fifth member, Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge, was excused from the meeting prior to the hearing.

The district is being created in cooperation with the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District's current project, which will eventually link the Bay St. Louis and Waveland sewage collection systems and build the first publicly owned collection systems in the county.

The existing wastewater treatment plant in Waveland will be improved to serve as treatment facility for both cities and later for parts of the county.

At the hearing, which was chaired by wastewater district attorney Lucien M. Gex at the request of Kellar, the county's representative on the wastewater board, three people spoke favorably about the proposed district.

They included Robert J. Fryer, a Shoreline Park resident who favors the idea of sewerage in the county but had questions about when service would be available in his neighborhood; Cheryl Reynolds, who reported that two organizations she represents, Jourdan River Estates Civic Association and River-view Homeowners Club are in favor of the plan; and Malcolm Tullier, a Shoreline Park resident who has repeatedly pleaded with the board of supervisors for sewerage in the subdivision.

The only objector was Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz, who presented a prepared statement on behalf of the Bay city council.

Frankiewicz has previously objected to the district, which will initially include Jourdan River Estates, Garden Isles, Jourdan River Estates and part of Shoreline Park.

Among his objections has been a refusal by the wastewater board and the supervisors to allow the city to extend sewerage to a proposed subdivision on Blue Meadow Road because it could be several years before the county could provide service.

The two boards have voiced agreement to a compromise in which the city could initially extend the sewerage and later turn the area over to the county.

Frankiewicz argued Tuesday that the subdivision was not even included in the proposed county district, roughly located between Jourdan River and Highway 603, until the night he asked the wastewater board for permission to extend service.

He also disputed county consultant

Ray Eaton's statements that plans are being made for sewerage in other parts of the county.

"I have described at length how much of the proposed district will not get sewer service to make one crucial point," the mayor said. "The proposed district boundaries have no rational relationship to the planned collection system. There are no bona fide plans to provide service to areas other than Jourdan River Isles, Garden Isles, Jourdan River Estates and very limited portions of Shoreline Park."

He said he is also concerned that there will not be grant funding available, driving the initial construction cost to about $8,000 per customer.

Eaton disagreed with both statements, stating that plans do exist and that the cost is now closer to $6,000.

The mayor criticized Eaton for "painting too rosy a picture of the district's benefits" and stated that "the district concept was conceived and promoted by a consultant who is also the direct beneficiary of the business generated by the plan."

He criticized the regional wastewater district for blocking the city's wish to provide service to the Blue Meadow Road development on the grounds that it would infringe on the proposed county district.

The mayor explained that he feels the district is blocking the expansion of the city's system, which he believes is directly contrary to law.

His objections also included the fact that the hearing was held at 10 a.m., which prevented the public and most of his council from attending, and that a map was not published with the legal boundary description.

Kellar, however, pointed out that the hearing was being held by the supervisors, who are lawfully bound to do business "during normal working hours."

Gex said the district will automatically become effective if there is no petition for a referendum on the matter by May 15.

Such a petition would have to be signed by 20 percent of 1,500 of the voters in the proposed district, whichever is less.

The district will enable the county to tax its residents up to four mills for sewerage service.

Closed sessions expected when school board begins teacher contract hearings

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board has scheduled a special executive session meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday for non-reemployment hearings.

However, it may depend on a state attorney general's opinion whether or not the entire meeting, with the exception of opening procedures used to go into the executive session, will remain closed to the public.

Board Attorney Lucien M. Gex said Wednesday morning that he has been trying to obtain the opinion to clarify who has the option to conduct non-reemployment hearings in closed or open session.

He said he expects to have a verbal opinion in time for the meeting.

According to the attorney, several teachers in the school district were notified by letter that their contracts had not been recommended for renewal for the 1987-88 school term.

They have a legal right in a hearing and some have made inquiries regarding their status.

The attorney said he believes the option of having an open or closed hearing, should the employee request that his case be presented before the public, rests with the school board.

"The way I read the law, it doesn't say the hearing must be public and the board has the option rather than the teacher," he stated.

Gex added, however, that he has no precedent to guide him since the district has no policy on non-reemployment hearings.

As far as the attorney was able to determine, no non-reemployment hearings have ever been held in the Bay-Waveland district.

He said he expects the board to hear the teachers' presentations in executive session "to protect the employees' privacy and because there are sensitive matters involved."

The meeting will be at the superintendent's headquarters at Bay Senior High School.

Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints

Members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints join other Christians in commemorating the joy of Easter and what they believe to be the greatest miracle of history, the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

"At this Easter time we join with residents of Hancock County and the Pass Christian area and others around the world in remembering the first Easter, the resurrection of Jesus Christ," said James D. Baldree, bishop of the Waveland Ward of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

"The resurrection was literal," added Baldree, "Christ's triumph over death dispelled the darkness of the crucifixion on Calvary. He brought to every person who ever lives on this earth the privilege of once again having a body, of living again."

Explaining the beliefs of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Baldree said: "We know that Jesus is the Christ, the Savior of all mankind. He died for our sins and He lives and reigns today in the heavens, resurrected and perfect, awaiting the day of His second coming in glory."

"Through living His teachings, we learn to love others, even our enemies, and to help create a world of peace."

"We join with other Christians worldwide to proclaim that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and the Savior of all mankind."

"We know that He lives, and that we shall see Him again. As Job of old said, 'I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth.'"

"May all Christians reflect this Easter about Christ's resurrection, and proclaim that He is the Son of God and the Savior of all mankind. We worship Jesus Christ and encourage all to do likewise."

"All residents of Hancock County and the Pass Christian area are invited to worship with us any Sunday and especially this Easter Sunday," added Baldree. Services include Sacrament at 9 a.m. and a special Easter presentation at 10:15 a.m.

Professor Ambrose publishes biography of Richard Nixon

"Nixon: The Education of a Politician," the first of a two-volume biography of Richard M. Nixon by University of New Orleans historian, Professor Stephen M. Ambrose of Bay St. Louis, has just been published by Simon & Schuster.

The book chronicles the life and career of Nixon, the 37th President of the United States, from his birth in 1913 until his "you won't have

Richard M. Ambrose, 40, around 1950. He is now a professor at the University of New Orleans. He is also a biographer of Richard M. Nixon. His two-volume biography of Nixon has been hailed as "the best to date" on its subject. As with his definitive Eisenhower biography, Ambrose has done extensive research on Nixon, tapping many sources: the Nixon White House Papers, the Eisenhower Library, the minutes of the National Security Commission, Cabinet and legislative leaders' meetings, transcripts of Nixon's conversations with John Foster Dulles, and much inside information - diaries, memos, correspondence, speech drafts, oral histories, plus the author's own interviews with President Eisenhower.

Ambrose presents Nixon as the major figure in world politics after the age of Stalin, Churchill, and Roosevelt.

Beginning in 1947, when as a freshman congressman he gave critical Republican support to the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan, and continuing through to 1955, when he advised President Ronald Reagan before the Geneva summit meeting with Mikhail Gorbachev, Richard Nixon has been involved in every aspect of American foreign policy as a critic, adviser, participant, or decision maker, said Ambrose.

"Kirkus Reviews" remarks in its review of "Nixon" that "Most previous biographies of Nixon have either been admiring political studies or hatchet jobs by obvious enemies. Ambrose rights both their wrongs and gives us a wonderful preliminary to the final volume, which will chronicle Nixon's resurrection, triumph and fall. Masterful biography."

OLA Star Student Dagnall names Pam Sawyer as Star Teacher

The Mississippi Economic Council has announced that Georgina Dagnall, a senior at the University of Mississippi, has been named the 1986-87 Star Student.

Dagnall is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society and has received numerous academic awards. She is also a member of the Alpha Phi Omega service organization.

The Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) Program encourages and promotes academic achievement among Mississippi's high school seniors.

Top scholars are being designated as Star Students in more than 325 participating schools in Mississippi. From these Star Students, area winners are selected, and the council awards scholarships to the state's top three Star Students and their Star Teachers.

Each Star Student is asked to designate a Star Teacher, a teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement. Mrs. Pam Sawyer was Dagnall's Star Teacher.

Miss Dagnall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Dagnall, is secretary of the senior class, an Alpha Honor Roll student, a member of the Math and Science Team, a member of the Quiz Bowl Team, and a member of the track team.

She placed second in engineering graphics at the JETS Competition in her junior year. She plans to study engineering at Mississippi State University.

Sawyer, a graduate of the University of Mississippi, has ten years teaching experience. She earned a master's degree from William Carey College. She teaches English, Latin, and American government at Our Lady Academy.

SOC DRAMA—The St. Stanislaus Drama Club will present the comedy "Armed and Dangerous" on April 24 and May 1 at the school. Kim McEntyre and Craig Adam will play the leading roles in the upcoming play. (SOC photo)

Bay High excels at State Festival

Bay High Tiger Pride Band made its premier performance in new uniforms Tuesday, March 31 at the MHSAA-sponsored State Band Festival at Hinds Junior College near Jackson.

The new uniforms, which had been ordered by the Bay-Waveland School Board in December, arrived in time for use at the statewide eight-day evaluation festival.

Under the direction of Miss Lana Jones, the Bay High Band was able to raise its ratings above last year's in four categories: concert, marching, drum major, and student conductor.

Senior drum major Craig Adam and freshman student conductor Thad McIntyre received superior ratings for their performances before festival judges.

The band was also able to maintain its rating of superior in the inspection division.

Miss Jones expressed appreciation to the band members for their "diligent work and improvement" throughout the school year; to the Tiger Pride Band Boosters for "untiring efforts" to the administration and board of the Bay-Waveland school district for their support; and to the community for their "loyalty to the band program."

"The combined work of director, students, parents, administration, and community are beginning to pay off, and we are beginning to see and hear results as the band improves in quality and quantity," she said.

Miss Jones commented further that authorities agree that it takes about five years to rebuild a band program, but because of the concerted efforts here, three or four years of progress have been made in only two years.

Mumps immunization essential for youth

Robert L. Hotchkiss, M.D., director of District IX of the Mississippi State Department of Health, reports he has received laboratory confirmation that at least some of the illnesses plaguing coastal area children and young adults are caused by the mumps virus.

Two of three specimens analyzed by Mayo Medical Laboratories indicate recent mumps infection in individuals with mumps-like symptoms.

Mississippi youths between ages 9 and 19 are particularly vulnerable to an outbreak of mumps, because the State Health Department, which gives 90 percent of childhood vaccinations, did not immunize for mumps before 1974, and only some of the vaccine between 1974 and 1978 provided immunity to mumps. All vaccines against measles and rubella given by the State Health Department after 1978 included the mumps vaccine.

Dr. Hotchkiss urges parents to check their children's medical records for proof of mumps immunization. Not only were some children not immunized against mumps, many of them were never exposed to the disease and so have no natural immunity. Most adults were exposed to mumps and are therefore immune.

If a child has not been immunized against mumps, the parent should check with their private physician or local health department about obtaining this protection.

Most individuals can safely receive the widely used Mumps, Measles and Rubella (MMR) vaccine, even if they are immune to one or more of its components.

The mumps vaccine is not 100 percent effective, so even if immunized, one of ten children may still get mumps. If enough people are immunized, transmission of mumps will not readily occur.

Bay High Tiger Pride Band made its premier performance in new uniforms Tuesday, March 31 at the MHSAA-sponsored State Band Festival at Hinds Junior College near Jackson. The new uniforms, which had been ordered by the Bay-Waveland School Board in December, arrived in time for use at the statewide eight-day evaluation festival. Under the direction of Miss Lana Jones, the Bay High Band was able to raise its ratings above last year's in four categories: concert, marching, drum major, and student conductor. IFC, Panhellenic at UM pledge $100,000 to speed alcohol/drug education center

UNIVERSITY—The Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council of the University of Mississippi, representing bodies of fraternity and sorority chapters, announced today that they have pledged $100,000 to the new Bessie B. Speed Center for Alcohol and Drug Education on campus.

The contribution represents a commitment of $5 per member per semester for a four-year period. Kirk Mullins of the IFC, IFC president, said the donation was a way to show that there is a concern among young people - especially Ole Miss Greeks - about alcohol and drug abuse.

"We wanted to contribute something worthwhile," he said. "We understand that this donation is buying us no favors, and we don't expect it to. We see it as a way of helping ourselves and others."

Thomas J. Reardon, associate dean of students at Ole Miss, said that the IFC/Panhellenic initiative has been met with campus wide support.

"IFC and Panhellenic saw a need and have stepped forward to help meet it," he said. "They see the potential for the Speed Center and will be able to help in many ways. The IFC and Panhellenic will be working with the Speed Center to help in many ways. The IFC and Panhellenic will be working with the Speed Center to help in many ways.

The Speed Center will stress education in preventing alcohol and drug abuse. Endowed last year by Jackson resident Bessie Bessie Speed, the Center will serve not only Ole Miss students but the region as well through outreach activities.

The Jackson Zoological Park

Fast start on a new business

There's a very special neighborhood bordering Livingston Park in Jackson that is enjoying a resurgence in community pride. Comprising 100 acres, the 66-year old area is one of the city's most popular addresses.

Visitors by the thousands visit every year. The residents come from varied backgrounds and nationalities, represent a broad range of tastes, attitudes and habits.

It's a unique place, currently in the midst of a determined program residents ranging from tigers and turtles.

Among the new programs soon to be developed is Adopt-an-Animal allowing individuals, school classes, youth organizations, civic clubs, businesses and corporations to "adopt" one of the zoo residents.

The 12-month adoption allows participants to contribute to the feeding and care of Jackson Zoo animals while sharing a closer relationship with the recipients and the zoo at large.

An important part of the "new" Jackson Zoo is an emphasis on marketing the facility both locally and throughout the surrounding region.

"The Jackson Zoo remains the number one attraction available to families living in or visiting this area," says Barrett. "I strongly feel that the zoo is a showpiece for both this city and the entire state of Mississippi."

If people come and see what's here to experience and learn, they will be back, and they will be our best advertisement. This is a wonderful place that will continue to improve and grow. It will be more wonderful as we move into our new beginning."

The Jackson Zoological Park is located at 2918 West Capitol Street. Hours through Memorial Day at 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Summer months hours are 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Admission is $1 for children twelve and under and $2 for adults. On-site concessions feature hamburgers, hot dogs, corn dogs, french fries, cotton candy, popcorn, soft drinks and ice cream. Phone (601) 352-2586 for more information.

of urban renewal. From one house to the next, image and appearance have become priorities.

A welcome and friendly atmosphere has been a traditional hallmark of the neighborhood from its beginnings in the early 1920s.

To put it plainly, all the residents are animals. The community is affectionately known as the Jackson Zoo.

The Jackson Zoological Park, located on 100 picturesque acres bordering Livingston Park on the outskirts of downtown Jackson, celebrates its 60th year while embarking on a new beginning in 1987. The management of the facility was formally turned over to Jackson Zoological Park, Inc. an arm of Friends of the Jackson Zoo, on Oct. 1.

Therefore, the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Waveland, Mississippi, do hereby enact the following ordinance:

SECTION 2. FINDINGS OF FACT.

1. The flood hazard areas of the City of Waveland, Mississippi, subject to inundation which results in loss of life and property, health and safety hazards, disruption of commerce and governmental services, extraordinary public expenditures for flood protection and relief, and impairment of the tax base, all of which adversely affect the public health, safety and general welfare.

2. These flood hazards are caused by the cumulative effect of obstructions in floodplains causing increases in flood heights and velocities, and by the occupancy of floodplains by uses which are vulnerable to floods or hazardous to other lands which are inadequately elevated, flood-proofed, or otherwise unprotected from flood damage.

Four Stanislaus students shine at Xavier

NEW ORLEANS, LA—Four St. Louis student science scholars were among the top award winners at the ninth annual Math-Science Olympiad held at Xavier University of Louisiana.

Honored were David Bourgeois, Stephen Bous, Robert Maynard and Michael Vegas, all of St. Stanislaus.

More than 500 students from 60 high schools in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama competed both as individuals and in four-member teams in the day-long program of academic testing. Exams, based on college instruction, were administered in biology, chemistry, mathematics and physics.

Bourgeois earned second place in physics. Bous got an honorable mention in both biology and physics, and Maynard was honorable mention in biology.

All three teamed with Vegas to help St. Stanislaus claim third place in the team competition.

The Math-Science Olympiad is held each year to stimulate student interest in the sciences and health professions and to provide a showcase for math and science scholars.
